

Shaping Your Raindrop Pillow Chair

The Raindrop Chair has three basic shapes.

- Giant jumping pillow about 4 feet by 4 feet.
- Flat against the wall as love seat—big enough for one-two adults or 2-3 kids.
- Raindrop chair, large lounge chair big enough for adult or kid.

To make the chair into the best Raindrop shape (not necessary for kid use):

1. Put the pillow on its edge and push down.
 - a. Turn and repeat pushing on each of its four edges.
2. Take hold of corner nearest closing seam and shake foam into closing seam corner. (Kind of a throw and jerk motion.)
 - a. Go to other edge near closing seam and repeat the throw/jerk motion.
 - This action puts more foam into closing seam corner and thus creates more head support in closing seam corner.
3. Put pillow on edge with closing seam up and facing back against wall.
 - This hides closing seam and is nicest because there will be no seam on top.
4. Bend slightly and sit back into chair.
 - By bending and sitting horizontally into chair, head support is pushed up for greater comfort.
